LEARNING INTENTIONS

- Discuss types of text structures.
- Engage in identifying signal words/phrases authors use when organizing texts.
- Explore ways to actively engage students in identifying and explaining text structures, orally and in writing.
- Discuss how to support ESE students.
- Determine how to get parents involved.

SUCCESS CRITERIA

• I can incorporate at least one activity I learned today for teaching text structure in my lesson plans.

SO...WHY TODAY'S TOPIC?

Because informational (or expository) text is the main source of reading material used when presenting academic content, students must be able to comprehend it.

Informational text can be challenging because of its structure, which is different than story structure, the more familiar one for students. (McCormick & Zutell, 2015)

SO...WHY TODAY'S TOPIC?

Research shows that explicit teaching of text structures, improves students' reading comprehension and results in retention of more information.

It also supports improvement in writing.

Reading Informational Text

R.2.1 Structure (STANDARD)

- ELA.K.R.2.1 Use titles, headings, and illustrations to predict and confirm the topic of texts.
- ELA.1.R.2.1 Use text features including titles, heading, captions, graphs, maps, glossaries, and/or illustrations to demonstrate understanding of texts.
- ELA.2.R.2.1. Explain how text features including titles, heading, captions, graphs, maps, glossaries, and/or illustrations contribute to the meaning of texts.

Reading Informational Text

R.2.1 Structure (STANDARD)

- ELA.3.R.2.1 Explain how text features contribute to meaning and identify the text structures of chronology, comparison, and cause/effect in texts.
- ELA.4.R.2.1 Explain how text features contribute to the meaning and identify the text structures of problem/solution, sequence, and description in texts.
- ELA.5.R.2.1. Explain how text structures and/or features contribute to the overall meaning of texts.

Reading Informational Text

R.2.1 Structure (STANDARD)

- ELA.6.R.2.1 Explain how individual text sections and/or features convey meaning in texts.
- ELA.7.R.2.1 Explain how individual text sections and/or features convey a purpose in texts.
- ELA.8.R.2.1. Analyze how individual text sections and/or features convey a purpose and/or meaning in texts.

Reading Informational Text

R.2.1 Structure (STANDARD)

- ELA.9.R.2.1 Analyze how multiple text structures and/or features convey a purpose and/or meaning in texts.
- ELA.10.R.2.1 Analyze the impact of multiple text structures and the use of features in texts.
- ELA.11.R.2.1. Evaluate the structure(s) and features in text(s).
- ELA.12.R.2.1 Evaluate the structure(s) and features in text(s), identifying how the author could make the text(s) more effective.

Text Structures

Text structure, also referred to as an organizational pattern, refers to how a text is organized. Below are six common text structures used by authors of expository texts.

Text Structure	Descriptor	Signal Words/Phrases	Example
Description	Information is presented in sections that often begin with a central idea and are followed by an elaboration of the features, characteristics, or examples of the subject at hand.	Characteristics of; details; for example, for instance; includes; in particular; specifically; such as; to illustrate.	A story about panthers is organized into four sections, each section describing a different characteristic of a panther.
Problem and Solution	Information is conveyed as an issue or a problem of concern and solution(s) are proposed or explained.	An answer to, a consequence of; a possible solution to; challenge of, dilemma; in order to solve; issue; problem; question; reason; resolution; resolved.	An author addresses the diminishing panther population by explaining the reasons for the decline, and offering suggestions for improving the species' survival rate.

TEXT STRUCTURES

Text structure, also referred to as an organizational pattern, refers to how a text is organized.

Text structures specifically noted in Florida's B.E.S.T. ELA Standards include:

*Description	*Problem and Solution
*Chronological	*Compare and Contrast
*Cause and Effect	*Sequence

DESCRIPTION

Information is presented in sections that often begin with a central idea and are followed by an elaboration of the features, characteristics, or examples of the subject at hand.

Signal words/phrases include:

characteristics of; details; for example; for instance; includes; in particular; specifically; such as; to; illustrate

PROBLEM AND SOLUTION

Information is conveyed as an issue or problem of concern and solution(s) are proposed or explained.

Signal words/phrases include:

an answer to; a consequence of; a possible solution to; challenge of; dilemma; in order to solve; issue; problem; question; reason; resolution; resolved

CHRONOLOGICAL

Facts, events, or details are presented in the order in which they occurred in time.

(not to be confused with sequential)

Signal words/phrases include:

on, at (date, time); before; earlier; eventually; following; next; not long after; now; presently; previously; prior to; then; recently; simultaneously; soon; until; when

COMPARE AND CONTRAST

The similarities and/or differences of two or more people, things, concepts, or ideas are presented.

Signal words/phrases include:

alike; also; as opposed to; both; but; comparatively; conversely; different; however; in contrast; instead of; not only; one the other hand; opposite from; same; share; similarly

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Information reflects a causal relationship. The description of what happened is the effect and the detail(s) related to why it happened is the cause.

Signal words/phrases include:

as a result; as such; because of; cause; consequently; due to; for this reason; led to; since; so; reason; result of; therefore; unless

SEQUENCE

Information is presented as a series of instructions or steps in a process.

Signal words/phrases include:

first; second; third; at once; after; before; during; finally; following; last; next

MATCHING ACTIVITY

Description	If your ice cream sits out in the hot sun, the result will be that you will have "ice cream soup".	A story about panthers is organized into four sections, each section describing a different characteristic of a panther.
In 500 BC people of the Persian Empire were the first to make ice cream. Then, in 1851, commercial ice cream production began in North America. Eventually, in 1904, The World's Fair caused local ice cream sellers to make the world's first ice cream cones.	An author explains how to distinguish a panther from a bobcat by providing characteristics shared by each, and emphasizing their distinctive features.	An instructional guide provides a detailed explanation of how to assemble a model Florida panther, step-by-step.
Sequence	Cause and Effect	Ice cream is a frozen, sugary sweet delicacy. It comes in a variety of flavors, for example, chocolate, strawberry, and vanilla.
If you have a problem with your ice cream melting before you eat it, the solution is to put it in the freezer.	An author writes an article about the evolutionary history of the Florida panther and organizes significant historical events based on the corresponding year each occurred.	Although both ice cream and broccoli share the similarity of both being food, they are part of two different food groups. Ice cream belongs in the dairy group and broccoli belongs in the fruits and vegetables group.
Compare and Contrast	To make a delicious ice cream sundae, first, scoop ice cream into a bowl. Next, add your favorite toppings. Finally, grab a spoon and enjoy!	Problem and Solution

An article explains the effects of increasing construction on the habitats of endangered species.

Chronological

An author addresses the diminishing panther population by explaining the reasons for the decline, and offering suggestions for improving the species' survival rate.

HOW DID YOU DO?

- How could you use this activity with students?
- Would it look differently in primary and intermediate grades?

Learning Intentions

- Discuss types of text structures.
- Engage in identifying signal words/phrases authors use when organizing texts.
- Explore ways to actively engage students in identifying and explaining text structures, orally and in writing.
- Discuss how to support ESE students.
- Determine how to get parents involved.

TIPS FOR TEACHING
TEXT STRUCTURE

- Individually introduce each type of text structure.
- Begin with short texts or excerpts as you introduce each type. You can use picture books, nonfiction articles, task cards, or reading passages.
- Use same topic texts written in different text structures. This helps students begin to understand the difference between the different text structures.

MORE TIPS FOR TEACHING TEXT STRUCTURE

- Teach students to rely on more than just signal words/phrases.
- Teach students to create graphic organizers for each of the text structures.
- Use read alouds that include a variety of text structure examples.
- Have students rewrite texts using different text structures.
- Scaffold learning teach, model, do it together, try it on your own

NOTES ON USING GRAPHIC ORGANIZERS

- Remember to always scaffold students as they use graphic organizers. Model completing each one (make sure they see a completed one) and try it together before students use them independently.
- Make sure to talk about each graphic organizer and how it supports the text structure, the main idea and details.
- Modify graphic organizers to match the text structure For example, with sequence, if the text has five steps, use a sequence graphic organizer that includes five steps.
- Graphic organizers can be used for reading and for planning writing.
- Graphic organizers completed independently can serve as a good assessment of student learning.

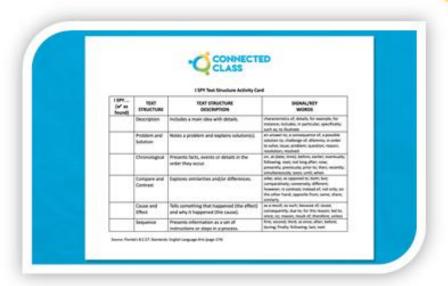

I SPY TEXT STRUCTURE ACTIVITY

I Spy Text Structure

I SPY TEXT STRUCTURE

Materials Needed: Variety of informational texts, I Spy Card, pencil

Process:

Step 1: Before beginning, talk about the different types of text structures on the I Spy Card. This activity may be played over the course of time in the classroom and at home.

Step 2: As you read a variety of informational books or articles with your child and they identify a specific text structure, have them say "I spy a text structure". The child will identify the text structure.

Step 3: Then have the child point out the keywords that led them to that conclusion and mark it on their I Spy Card. When the child has found all of the text structures on the card, they are an "I Spy Text Structure Expert".

WRITING

Students brainstorm different topics they can write about and divide into groups. Each group selects a topic and using a large sheet of chart paper, writes the topic in the middle, then creates a section for each type of text structure. Each group then collaborates in writing short sentences that fit the specific types of structures. Once each group completes their chart, the class engages in a cooperative learning strategy, Carousel Walk.

Nonfiction Practice at Home

Reading nonfiction books helps children learn new vocabulary words and increases their background knowledge of the topics they read about. New guidelines in education have placed a greater importance on reading nonfiction text. By the end of fourth grade, students should be reading nonfiction at least half of the time. When they graduate from high school, they should be reading nonfiction 70% of the time. In order to get in enough nonfiction reading time, it is helpful to sometimes read it at home with your child. These websites have nonfiction text that your child can read for additional practice if you do not have any nonfiction books at home. Please read the text before having your child read it to make sure it is appropriate.

Lexile.com allows you to copy text and paste it in the box to get the Lexile level (reading level) of a text. This link will lead you directly to the place on the website where you can get the text analyzed. Once you paste the text in the box, click on the blue box to the right that says analyze and the Lexile level will come up.

LEARNING INTENTIONS

- Discuss types of text structures.
- Engage in identifying signal words/phrases authors use when organizing texts.
- Explore ways to actively engage students in identifying and explaining text structures, orally and in writing.
- Discuss how to support ESE students.
- Determine how to get parents involved.

ESE CONNECTION

Ascertain where students are in their understandings of text features and text structure and provide the appropriate support.

- Do they understand text structures? Can they identify them in texts?
- What leveling of thinking are they at with regards to literacy elements (describe, identify, explain, analyze, evaluate)?

LEVELS OF THINKING

- Identify to know and say who someone is or what something is
- Describe to depict in your own words, tell in your own words, to report
- Explain to tell about something so people understand it
- Analyze to break something down into parts
- Evaluate to find value, find worth, judge, appraise, assess

ESE/ELL SUPPORT

- Make sure students understand each structure before they work with it in text.
 This instruction should begin in primary grades.
- Begin by using texts that provide clear, easy-to-recognize examples of structure that you are teaching.
- Use graphic organizers to support understanding of structures, for example, a Venn diagram for compare-contrast.

MORE ESE/ELL SUPPORT

- Provide hands-on practice, such as charting events in a text and assigning each event to a student. Students must line up in the correct order that the events occurred.
- Students can act out key parts of a problemsolution text.
- Students can use/draw pictures to represent cause and effect.
- Use a variety of examples of each text structure...begin with short passages and paragraphs and shift into longer texts over time.

AHA TEXT FEATURE SCAVENGER HUNT

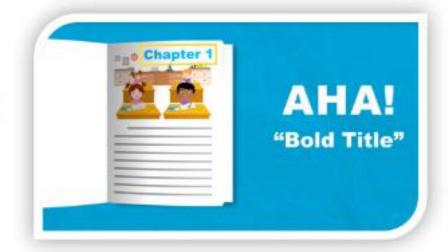

Aha! Text Feature Scavenger Hunt

AHA! TEXT FEATURE SCAVENGER HUNT

Materials Needed: Informational text with text features, Text Feature List

Process:

Step 1: Before beginning the activity, talk about the different types of text features on the Text Feature List.

Step 2: Tell the child or student that they are going on a scavenger hunt through a text, looking for text features while they read.

Step 3: Read together with the child. As they see a specific text feature, have them call out, "AHA!" and state the text feature by name.

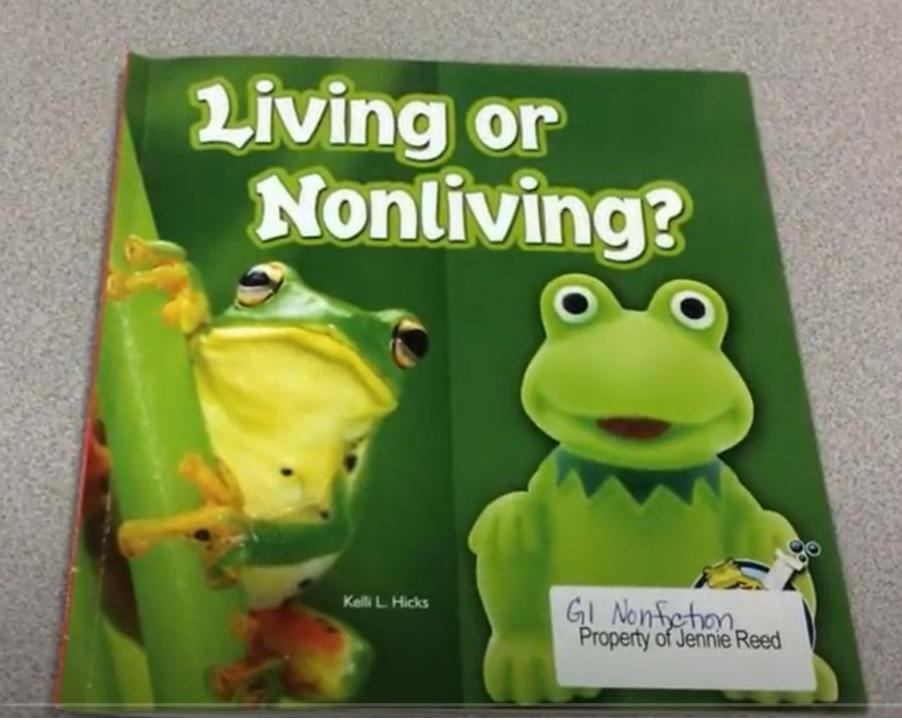

Step 4: Then ask the child or student to tell you how the text feature helps them understand more about the text.

LEARNING INTENTIONS

- Discuss types of text structures.
- Engage in identifying signal words/phrases authors use when organizing texts.
- Explore ways to actively engage students in identifying and explaining text structures, orally and in writing.
- Discuss how to support ESE students.
- Determine how to get parents involved.

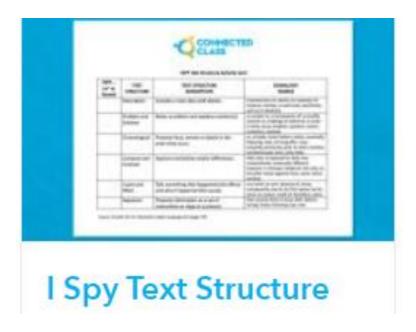

THE IMPORTANCE OF HOME & SCHOOL CONNECTION

- Earn higher grades
- Attend school regularly
- Take rigorous courses
- Exhibit better behavior at home and at school
- Graduate and go on to both college and careers

WAYS FAMILIES CAN SUPPORT AT HOME CONNECTED CLASS LEARNING LINKS

- Remember that Learning Links can be used by teachers and parents.
- Teachers can use this activity at school and students can also do it at home with parents to help reinforce learning.

- This Learning Link activity is a great way to explore the text structure of Sequence.
- While doing this activity, parents can also have their child identify any sequence words/phrases they notice in the recipe.
- As a follow-up activity, parents can have their child write their own recipe or step-by-step directions, for example, making a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. After the child writes the directions, the parent and child can follow them explicitly and then talk about it.

- This Learning Link activity is a great way to support students who might need to better understand Cause and Effect in order to find it in texts.
- After playing this game, parents and children can read some informational texts together and note when they come across cause and effect text structure.

Superior Comic Sequencing

- This Learning Link activity is a great way to explore the text structure of Chronological. They must put the pictures in the order in which they occurred in time.
- This activity helps the child because familiar with and use transition words that signal the sequence text structure.

Nonfiction Nuggets

- This Learning Link activity is a great way to support the text structure of Description.
- This activity helps the child because they engage in writing down facts and details as they are reading.
- While doing this activity, parents can also have their child identify any signal words/phrases they notice.

SUCCESS CRITERIA

• I can incorporate at least one activity I learned today for teaching text structure in my lesson plans.

FOLLOW-UP

In-Service Follow-Up Option IV

Training Session:

Directions:

Connect to parents and families based on student need using Learning Link on Connected Class. Complete the following to earn three in-service points:

- Set-up your student list for Learning Link. Directions for set-up.
- · Select two videos and teach the concepts to some or all of your students.
- Send the videos you used with the students to their families and encourage them to play the game, strategy or activity at home.
- · Collect the following evidence and email it to Katie when you are complete:
 - Take a screen shot of your student list. You can use your phone to take the photo.
 - o Answer these questions:
 - What videos did you use?
 - How many of your parents participated?
 - Did you see increased student achievement? Explain.

Please submit via email katie@connectedclass.com no later than 30 days after the training date.

Three In-Service Points will be awarded for this option.
